

The Chain of Smiles

'The chain of smiles' is a tender story to show the value of every single smile. In this story a girl named Carla Chalmers got a assignment by her teacher Miss Ellis on happiness. She took much time to complete this assignment but she completed in such a way that every student has a happy face. She brought a sack and then when teacher asked what was it she told it was all the happiness she stored. After that she gave a box to the teacher and asked her to open the box as she opened the box she took a photo of Miss Ellis by her instant camera. After that she opened sack and showed everyone a big smile so that every student has a happy face and she took everyone's photo one by one and gave their photo them and she asked every student to do the same with others because it means that when we are happy we are also spreading happiness around us.
